Observations... By the Editor

In our editorial of last week we suggested establishing rural routes from Bay St. Louis to serve the people of the rural sections of Hancock County, to afford our people the possibility of one day mail service from their county seat. A route to serve the lower section of our county, including Lakeshore, Ansley, Pearlinton and Logtown was suggested. It was not our intention to offer a suggestion of the discontinuance of the postoffices at Pearlinton nor at Logtown. These offices serve a purpose and certainly, we would not even suggest the loss of identity to these communities. The purpose of our suggestions is to reidentify Hancock County. A star or rural route to serve an area some few miles north of Kiln was established some time back, and certainly this route has not affected the Kiln Post Office. It will give to those people who live in these rural areas away from a postoffice, and many who are presently being served through offices from other counties, a better service from their own county seat. We think there is an ordinance on the records of the Mayor and Commission Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, which prohibits the blocking of crossings by trains over a certain length of time. This ordinance should be enforced. A couple of Sundays ago, a freight train blocked the crossings from the beach to the station, at church time, causing many people to be late for services, and too, during the school terms, on many occasions these crossings are blocked at the hour the children are on their way to school, and it is a question of them being late or taking the risk of crossing between cars. This should not be undertaken by our youngsters. The matter should be looked into by our City Fathers, and if it is a City Ordinance, it should be enforced. The job of repairing DeMontz Avenue is underway, and it will not be long before we will be able to stop playing hopscotch. Another tip of the hat to the boys in the City Hall. The City Police might look into the parking situation in front of the Star Theatre. Some folks never pay much attention as to how and where they park. Many times parking is on both sides of the narrow sections of the beach, and it allows only one way traffic. Certainly there is enough room in this section of town for parking, and this should not be allowed to occur. The Women's Civic League of Pass Christian has authorized its Secretary to contact the Highway Department and the people of Bay St. Louis in regards to plans for the future use of the old Bridge over the Bay of St. Louis, as suggested in a letter to the Editor from Edward Desobry, which was published in our last issue. We have heard nothing from the suggestion from this end. How about joining up with our Pass Christian friends and working on this problem? It will be a while before it finally materializes; nevertheless, better move now. May need some legislation before it is accomplished. We are still hoping the Mayor and Commissioners and the Board of Supervisors will experiment a bit in the building of a sand catcher at the McDonald point on the beach. It was suggested to us this week, that perhaps sand bags would serve the purpose, and would not deteriorate too rapidly to prove or disprove the experiment. This method certainly would not prove costly. If the findings are then favorable, permanent groins can be placed. Worth a try boys. We are having quite a number of washouts following the heavy rains on the fill placed on the beach. There is need for some type of drainage to be placed here, and there is further need for more filling and some sodding. If we have hurricane trouble this year, the mere touch of the water on these fills will again destroy them. The Boards should certainly look into this matter before it is too late. The costs would certainly not be very much.

Stork Greets Martins-Brings Quads

Pass Christian, Miss. August 2—Yesterday at noon quadruplets, all boys, were born to Sencil and Gertrude Martin at their home on Clarence avenue. Dr. C. D. Taylor, who delivered the babies stated that all four boys were in excellent health and getting along fine on their second day. The delivery was performed in the Martin home, and Dr. Taylor immediately sent the babies and their mother to the Memorial Hospital in Gulfport, Miss. The first boy was born at 11:40 a.m. and the fourth at 1:20 p.m. The babies were named Luke, Mark, Matthew and John and weighed two pounds six ounces; three pounds, eight ounces; three pounds; and three pounds nine ounces, respectively. The one-day disaster meeting, sponsored jointly by Governor Wright and the American Red Cross, included a number of speakers and panel discussion leaders experienced in direction of some of Mississippi's and the nation's biggest disaster operations in recent years.

Municipal governmental responsibility in time of disaster was discussed by Biloxi's Mayor G. B. Cousins; county responsibility, by Howard Cameron of Meridian, chancery clerk of Lauderdale County; and state governmental responsibility, by Brig. Gen. B. E. McDearman of Cleveland, who is coordinator for all state departments in disaster activities.

The Red Cross job in the emergency days of the disaster was discussed by E. C. Bryant of Atlanta, director of Disaster Service in the Red Cross Southeastern Area. DeWitt Smith of Washington, D. C., National Red Cross vice-president for Social Welfare Services, discussed the organization's responsibilities during the long-term program of rehabilitation of individual families following the emergency phase of the operation.

Members Attend Disaster Meeting

Representatives of the American Red Cross from Hancock County who attended the meeting were T. T. Robin, Disaster chairman; Lamar Otis, assistant disaster chairman; Dr. James A. Evans, Chapter Chairman; Mrs. Leo Seals, Mrs. J. A. Evans and Mrs. E. M. Weston.

He called upon them to save lives, reduce injuries and property losses through understanding of their respective duties and by better coordination of the emergency operations of all agencies having responsibility in time of disaster. He emphasized the need for specific plans of operation to be drawn up for every community, taking into account all the principal types of major catastrophes which may hit the community.

The Governor revealed that within the past 10 years tornadoes have hit 52 of Mississippi's 86 counties, floods have swept through 18, hurricanes through 10, and major fire disasters have occurred in 10 counties, leaving death, injuries, and heavy property destruction in their wake.

Not Immune From Catastrophes. "We must recognize that no state or community is immune from major catastrophes. There is only one course to take which will fortify our communities against the time when disaster strikes. That is disaster preparedness planning. Disaster is a community problem. As citizens of a community all of us are involved in helping to meet and overcome disaster-created emergencies."

Closer Harmony Brings Efficiency. He pointed out that government departments and the American Red Cross have separate and distinct responsibilities in time of disaster operations but need to work in close harmony for greater efficiency.

"You, as public officials, should arrange for conferences with your local Red Cross chapters to discuss the operational plans of each, and should have working understandings."

Affidavits, signed by Mrs. T. E. Bressler, were filed in the Mayor's Court, Saturday, July 29 against H. W. LeTissier, owner of Hotel Reed, charging the operation of a keno or bingo game; Joe Givings, owner of the Orleans Bar, charging the operation of a card game; Roy Craft, owner of the Beach Club, charging operation of a card game; Jack Ladner, owner of Jack's Lounge, charging the operation of card game; and A. Trapani, owner of the Knock-Knock Club, charging the operation of a keno or bingo game. Warrants were issued by the Mayor in these cases; however, the warrants were not served by chief of police Alcine Saudier, who was advised by the Mayor not to serve the warrants, but to instruct those charged to discontinue the operation of the games charged in the affidavits. Apparently the operations were closed Saturday night as no keno or keno games were in evidence.

Mrs. Bressler, we are informed, filed these charges, following a notification by the chief of police to discontinue the operation of punch boards in the Bressler Cafe, operated by her husband T. E. Bressler.

The Provisional League of Women Voters voted to defer work on the national project until the fall in order to allow the members to concentrate more fully on the town survey. The group met at the home of Mrs. Leigh Carroll Friday, July 28, to discuss the two programs for the year.

Topics on political organization, schools and transportation have not been assigned; the League hopes that some of the members will volunteer to form committees to study these important phases.

Mrs. Wiltberger and Miss Edwards will give the first reports of the town survey at the regular Friday night forum. These meetings are held every Friday night, from 7:45 to 9:30 at the home of the members. This week, tonight, the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wiltberger, 105 Boardman avenue. The meeting place will be announced each week in the Echo.

State Auditor Carl Craig has forwarded to the City of Bay St. Louis, a warrant in the sum of $8,267.00 as the first allotment to the city of the appropriations made by the last session of the Legislature as an aid to city governments.

The allocation of the total sum of $1,500,000.00 is based on a first payment to each municipality on a per capita basis of $2.00 per person as of the census of 1940. The second payment will be made later on the basis of .75 cents per person.

These funds, so we are advised, will be allocated by the city as follows: 15% of the total for general purposes and 85% for permanent improvements.

Hold Tryouts for Future Play. Tryouts for "The Late Christopher Bean," to be produced at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre in October, will be held Sunday, August 13, at 5 p.m. in the theatre. Mrs. E. C. Samuel, director, announced.

NO MATTER HOW BLUE

The hub-bub of conversation in the town this week is that "Blue law" will soon be in effect. What a threat, and who does it come from? From folks who should be seen and not heard. However, it seems that the boys who once operated the slot machines are die hards, never to be reconciled to the fact that the slot machines are out, and those remaining in the county are on their way out, even though it may be a slow procedure.

There are many illegitimate businesses in Bay St. Louis, and of course they are tolerated; but every now and then, the hue and cry of "Blue Law" is sent out, by the boys or their cohorts with the hope that the scare of a "Blue Law" town would probably cause those leading the fight to rid Hancock County of the slot machines and of the control of the racketeers, to about face and forget it. Boys you may as well realize the folks leading this fight don't scare easy. It matters not how "Blue" your town may get it is your wish to make it that way—the fight is on to the end.

Of course, the influences of the racketeers works similarly to those of the communists, who are today seeking to undermine our great country. The racketeer attempts to, and often succeeds, in undermining the sources of government with their corrupt influences purchased with their ill-gotten gains. It is rather hard to analyze such a situation, but it exists right in our midst. We find officers charged with the enforcement of the law doing the bidding of the racketeer, leading the fight to restore their nefarious devices, to rob those poor unfortunate, who can least afford to lose the few nickels they have to purchase the necessities of life. How self satisfying this must be? What ease of conscience it must offer?

The leadership of the racketeers in Hancock County is at an end, and the luscious days of the shakedown is fast coming to a close. There is sound leadership for righteousness, if they will exercise it, even among those who have led the racket. Hancock County needs these and many others to blaze the way; so that it may assume the position it rightfully deserves.

Try it boys, it will afford you much pleasure to help build in the cause of righteousness. It will relieve you of the heartaches and pains of the life of the racketeers. It will mean freedom for you. It will be the means of reestablishing yourself as leaders and in the building of a bigger and better Hancock County.

Forest Fires Are Your Business

Forest protection, like advertising, pays dividends. That is the considered opinion of an overwhelming majority of the nation's woodland owners. Their viewpoint is shared by state and federal forest agencies, the forestry profession and America's wood-using industries. All agree that fire prevention and forest protection are good business.

Fires, however, still take a terrific toll in green and growing forests. This year they probably will burn over an area as large as the State of Indiana and destroy the potential lumber for at least eighty-six thousand one family houses. In an average year forest fires in the United States burn timberland at the rate of seventy thousand acres a day destroying enough potential newsprint to publish every newspaper in the United States for a twelve month period.

Wasteful? Of course it is. Even the richest nation on earth cannot afford to squander its resources at that rate. Nor can it afford the many other less tangible losses—soil erosion, damage to fish and game, and destruction of recreational areas—that result when forest fires break out.

A study of forest fire losses during the past decade shows a consistent downward trend in the number of man-caused fires. Three-fourths of the country's forestland is now under some form of organized protection. More and more Americans are becoming forest fire conscious. Progress is being made.

A potent force in bringing this awakening about has been the Keep America Green movement. We know it locally as Keep Mississippi Green, which focuses attention in both causes and results of forest fires. By interpreting woods fires in terms of wages, profits, taxes, raw materials and recreational facilities, the Keep Green deal puts an effective pocketbook punch into fire prevention education. Forest fire prevention, however, requires work as well as words. "Keeping Mississippi Green is everybody's business because it is good business for everybody."

Civic League Passes Anti-Hoarding Bill

Pass Christian—The Women's Civic League held its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Miramar Hotel with President Elena Fitzpatrick, presiding.

An anti-hoarding resolution was passed by the group pledging all members to refrain from purchasing an over-supply of any foods or other items and to do everything possible to discourage hoarding by any of the citizens of the community during the present emergency.

Mrs. Shirley Northrop, chairman of the Clean-Up Committee, presented her report on the progress made to obtain containers. She stated that Mayor Francis J. Hursey is cooperating with the League in this endeavor.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick discussed with the league a plan to obtain the moving picture, "Sickie or the Crown," if possible, to present it in order to raise funds for the purchasing of these containers. This movie concerning Communism and Democracy was presented in Gulfport last week by the Elks Club. In conjunction with a letter to the editor written by Edward Desbroy in last week's Echo. The group has authorized the secretary to contact the Highway Department and the people of Bay St. Louis in regard to the old bridge over the Bay. The suggestion for using the bridge in making numerous fishing and crabbing piers and recreational piers was accepted by the League as an excellent one.

The birth of quadruplets to the Martins was discussed, and the League voted to attempt to secure aid for the babies from the various baby products companies. The next regular scheduled meeting will be held Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., August 15th, and secondary Rosalee Ambler has announced that all members are urged to attend.

ARRIVES IN GERMANY

Mrs. W. L. Higgins, nee Elsie Mae Capdepon, and children, arrived in Wiesbaden, Germany, around July 18, where she joined CWO Higgins.

Mrs. Higgins writes that all the new sights are impressive to her and that the country is all so beautiful.

Election Funds

THIS COLUMN has reported of the all-out efforts being made by so-called "big business" to defeat the program of the present administration in this congress. But this same big business has not been content to rest on its oars here in Washington. The evidence is that it has spent important money in several state primaries to defeat liberal candidates or those who had some interest in the measures up for the welfare of the little people.

The first word came when it was reported that big business used up big money in defeating Senator Claude Pepper in Florida. Then the same reports in defeating Senator Frank Graham in North Carolina. But this action of the moneyed interests was not confined to Democratic ranks.

Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, a liberal Republican, cited to his colleagues verse and chapter and named names of big eastern interests who sent money into Oregon in an effort to help the senator's primary opponent. One was a former member of the National Association of Manufacturers; another is associated with National Steel Corporation; another a New York brokerage firm and another a Minneapolis grain operator.

Latest story is that the same interests spent something like a half million dollars in an effort to re-elect Senator Elmer Thomas in Oklahoma.

Celler a Liberal

One of the most liberal men in the congress is Representative Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, a square-built, ruddy faced individual, balding and with graying wisps of hair. Called nearly everything, including a Socialist, a Communist, a leftist, and whatnot, he said:

"I am not a Socialist. I am not a Communist. I am a New Dealer and a Fair Dealer. It takes me a rinky dink, then I'm a rinky dink. I am not ashamed. I am proud," and his blue-grey eyes twinkle behind his spectacles.

Korean Issue

Republicans would like to make an issue over the Korean situation in the coming elections to the effect that Truman failed to keep the peace, that Korea did not get money appropriated, that we were again asleep when the north Koreans attacked. All these angles have been discussed at GOP policy meetings. However, some Republicans pointed out that only a cursory scanning of the congressional record puts too many Republicans "on the spot" in connection with the debate over Korean aid.

For instance one Republican said South Korea was a "Bataan without a Corregidor." Another likened it to "operation rathole" and there were many other such statements on the house floor when a majority of the GOP membership voted against the last Korean aid bill.

Lobby Probe

Chairman Frank Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, continuing his probe of lobbying activities has announced he contemplates hearings on the National Tax Equality Association, the organization spearheading the fight to tax patronage refunds of farm co-ops.

Hunt War Contracts

Manufacturers are already flocking into Washington to learn how they can convert their plants to war contracts. These are owners of small plants. About four years ago the Munitions Board started a survey of approximately 3200 manufacturing plants to determine their best use in case of war. Supposedly this survey is now dusted off and ready for application when and if full scale war comes.

Korean Aid Revealed

The house foreign affairs committee learned for the first time recently the extent of aid given to Korea in the way of arms when United States troops were withdrawn in July 1949, just a year ago. That huge stockpile was valued at $110,000,000 and the equipment included more than 100,000 rifles and small arms; more than 3,000 anti-tank bazookas with 40,000 rounds of ammunition; more than 4,900 vehicles and a large number of 37 and 57-mm anti-tank guns, 105 mm howitzers, 60 and 80 mm mortars with more than 700,000 rounds of ammunition.

Construction Peak

The Associated General Contractors of America predict, following a nationwide survey, that total construction including industrial, commercial and institutional buildings, highways, airports and railroads, public utilities, pipelines and other engineering projects will break all records in 1950 with a total of $23,000,000,000, which with maintenance and repair will be in excess of 30 billion.

GUESTS OF PRATS

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Stockton of New Orleans spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Pratz at their home, Gaylewood, in Waveland.

Make 'Cancer Detection Clinic' Out of Every Doctor's Office

By BILLY ROSE

Mr. Alfred S. Black, Hattiesburg, Mississippi

Dear Mr. Black:

A couple of months ago you dropped in to see me, and as the result of our meeting I wrote a column asking for suggestions on how to best spend the $2,000,000 left by your brother to the Black-Stevenson foundation to provide "preventive and remedial treatment for cancer sufferers."

And I was plenty happy when you phoned a week after the piece appeared and told me you had received 4,000 letters, many from outstanding medical men and research organizations.

Well, this is letter No. 4001, and if your patience and eyes can take it I'd like to outline a startlingly unspectacular plan which may save the lives of 50,000 cancer victims a year at a cost of less than $5 per life. The idea—and it's a simple one—was passed on to me by Dr. Harold T. Hyman of New York, the well-known physician whose four-volume "Integrated Practice of Medicine" has been called "the practitioner's bible" by Time magazine. But before I ease into Dr. Hyman's notion, let me give you some of the reasons behind it.

IN THIS WEALTHIEST of nations, where we have more doctors per capita than anywhere else, millions of people get periodic medical check-ups—but seldom are they checked for cancer until something begins to hurt. The reason, according to Dr. Hyman, is that these examinations seldom include a "survey" for cancer, even though this involves little more than a few proddings and scrapings.

I get it from Dr. Hyman, a person has a 50 per cent chance of living cancer if it is spotted in its incipient stages and treated by a competent physician. But before I ease into Dr. Hyman's notion, let me give you some of the reasons behind it.

At I get it from Dr. Hyman, a person has a 50 per cent chance of living cancer if it is spotted in its incipient stages and treated by a competent physician. But before I ease into Dr. Hyman's notion, let me give you some of the reasons behind it.

Which, in my simple arithmetic means that 30 out of every 100 cancer deaths can be prevented if we find a way to make every doctor's office in the country a cancer detection center.

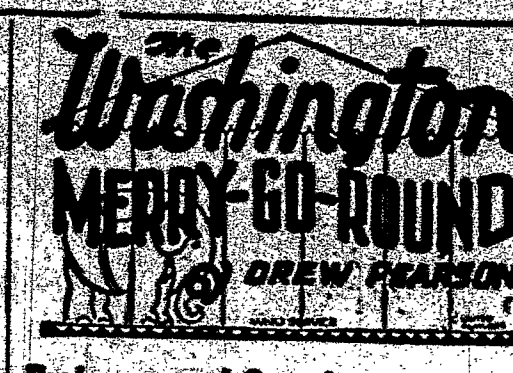

Here's where Dr. Hyman's notion and your brother's money come in. Why wouldn't it be a good idea for the Black-Stevenson foundation to compile all the latest knowledge on cancer diagnosis in one hefty volume and then, working through the various local medical societies,

Embarrassed Senators

THE FOLLOWING incident took place on the senate floor, but was not reported in the congressional record.

The continuation of the draft act was before the senate for a vote. Three of the strongest isolationists, James Kenn of Missouri, George Malone of Nevada and Arthur Watkins of Utah, all Republicans—buddled with floor leaders.

"Don't embarrass us," they whispered. "We don't want a record vote. Just the eyes and nose."

Whereupon Oregon's Wayne Morse stomped back to fellow Republican Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and said in a loud whisper: "The nerve of those guys!"

Lodge, getting the cue, immediately demanded a record vote. When the roll was called, all three—Kenn, Malone and Watkins—meekly voted "aye."

Korean Contrasts

The following four incidents happened in widely separated parts of the world, but they may have significant bearing on each other.

1. U. S. troops in Korea reported that they knocked out a North Korean tank; the Korean crew jumped out, their clothes on fire, and the Americans tried to get them to surrender. But the Koreans rejoined their own forces and kept on fighting. "I used to have contempt for them," said a high American commander, "but I was mistaken."

2. In the U. S. senate, Lodge, Republican of Massachusetts, proposed two billion dollars more in arms aid to the world.

3. General Eisenhower, requesting more money for the Voice of America, said: "All the armies in the world are no good without morale."

4. The senate appropriations committee, one day after Eisenhower, Gen. George Marshall, Bernard Baruch, Gen. Bedell Smith, and Gen. David Sarnoff of RCA had announced the importance of Voice of America propaganda, proceeded to scorn the above advice. The committee lopped $13,000,000 off the state department's 1951 budget, and $1,300,000 off the Voice of America.

Meanwhile, in Korea, tough, propaganda-fed North Koreans continued to cut through demoralized, unpropagandized South Koreans like a warm knife through butter.

World's Worst Advertisers

A better way to tell the American story to the rest of the world is something this columnist has been harping on for five long years—probably to the boredom of a lot of readers.

Propaganda, of course, is a word used to cover a great many meanings, and to some people it means angled news, deliberately twisted to put across a certain cause. But the best propaganda is the truth. And the most powerful weapon to make people think you are doing good is to do good.

But while we have been doing a great deal of good through the Marshall plan and in many other ways, we have failed to tell people the truth about that good. Thus the wheat we sent to France and Italy went out the normal channels of trade, brought in revenue for those governments, balanced their budgets, and kept them in power. But the American people got little or no credit.

By contrast, in 1947, when the United States actually was supplying 90 per cent of the wheat used by the French people, the Soviet government landed one cargo of wheat in Marseilles. The wheat was carried on an American lend-lease ship, and the Russians required the French to pay in dollars, while our wheat was given away. Yet, by staging a parade through Marseilles, the Russians created the impression they were the only nation coming to the rescue of the hungry people of France.

This was partly what inspired the friendship train. Organized on the west coast so that it could cross the continent and be a genuine contribution by the American people, newswires of the train's progress were sent to western Europe in advance and shown in the motion picture theaters there, to give the people concrete evidence of how Americans from every walk of life were anxious to contribute to their welfare.

Propaganda doesn't have to be carried by radio or by the printed word. The best and most wholesome forms of propaganda are by personal contact.

Congressional Penny-Pinchers

This is about what the Republican 80th congress did four years ago when the senator who is now urging increased funds for propaganda was assistant secretary of state.

William Benton, now senator from Connecticut, was put in charge of the state department's Voice of America.

Benton had been able to sell top businessmen enough propaganda ideas to make him a wealthy man. But when it came to selling more backed congressmen he failed.

Henry Capdepon, who is in an Alexandria hospital, is improving. Mrs. Capdepon, who had been in Alexandria for a while, returned to her home here Sunday.

THE KOREAN SITUATION

The big questions in the minds of the American people and the leaders of our government here in Washington continue to be:

(1) Will our forces be driven off the Korean Peninsula?
(2) What will our policy be after Korea?

There are almost as many answers to these questions as the number of leaders, military strategists, newspapermen, radio commentators, and members of Congress here in Washington. The President and the military leaders are the subject of much debate on the floor of the two Houses of the Congress, in the newspapers, and in the cloak rooms, as well as over the radio. But regardless of the means, there is one definite course of action mapped out, much of the criticism of the President and the Secretary of State is justified. For, it is a regrettable fact that our foreign policy, after the victory at Berlin and Tokyo, has been a haphazard, vacillating crossword puzzle. We made the mistake of appeasement of Stalin and Company after those victories, which we have pointed out repeatedly in this column, in public addresses, in written reports of our Post War Committee, and otherwise. Then, finally, when the Administration realized belatedly that the appeasement policy was no good and that Stalin was intent upon making this a Communist world, we changed our hands—off Far Eastern policy and called Stalin's hand at Korea. The Administration is bound to have realized that this was not a very good strategic point, from our point of view, to call the Russians' bluff. But be that as it may, the hand of aggression having been called, there is nothing to do but see it through.

The military leaders, Secretary of Defense Johnson, General MacArthur, and others are repeatedly expressing confidence in our ability to maintain a beachhead in Korea long enough to enable us to get sufficient forces there to drive the Red Koreans back north of the thirty-eighth parallel and out of South Korea, which is our immediate objective. In spite of these expressions of confidence of the military leaders, there are many here in Washington and elsewhere who believe that Korea will prove to be another Dunkirk.

But regardless of whether we hold Korea or whether we are driven off, the fact remains that there is no turning back. To do so would be tantamount to surrendering Asia and the Far East, generally, to the Russian Communists.

Should the Russians gain such a victory in the East, we would then have to decide whether we were going to concentrate our efforts in the West and defend Europe from further Russian aggression. The only alternative, as we see it, in that case would be to withdraw all of our forces, throughout the world, and prepare to defend our own shores. This last course is almost unthinkable now when it is realized that the civilized world, due to scientific advancement in communications transportation, is such a small world.

We repeat our oft-expressed opinion that the real strategy of the Politburo is to divide and conquer through the spread of the fanatical ideology of Communism, the bringing about of chaos and confusion, and the taking over of the various governments by infiltration and revolution, rather than by risking all in an all-out war between Russia and her selected enemies.

If we are correct in this, regardless of the outcome in Korea, Russia will investigate, through her puppet satellite nations, further troubles in other sections of the world—Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Germany, Iran, and possibly other places. The real danger to us in this lies in the fact that it is possible for Russia to get our forces so scattered throughout the world, with the consequent drain upon our economy in this country, that we would be strong military in no point abroad, and our economy at home would be so weakened that we too could become ripe for infiltration and revolution. We are not too sure that this is not Stalin's strategy. The next few months could well determine that.

In any event, it might be well for the President and his advisors, in the final analysis make our foreign policy, to consider seriously whether we should permit Russia to continue to call the signals or whether or not at some given point it might be advisable for us to take the initiative.

O'Gwin - McConnell Wedding

Miss June McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. McConnell of New Orleans and Waveland, and Van James O'Gwin of Gulfport, son of Benjamin W. O'Gwin of Birmingham and Mrs. O. J. Miller of Jasper, Alabama, were married at Trinity Episcopal Church on Saturday, July 29 at 5 p. m. the Reverend Willis G. Clark officiating.

The couple said their vows before an altar banked with white gladioli and tube roses. Behind these were tall potted palms and branched candelabra holding lighted candles.

Leon Hammonds of Monroe, La., uncle of the bride, played the traditional wedding marches for the professional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a strapless dress of white organza over white tulle with a band of embroidery at the top of the bodice and a broader band at the hemline of the full skirt which finished just above the ankle. With this, she wore a short jacket which buttoned up the front with organza buttons. Her hat was made of white flowers on a straw base in the shape of a broken egg shell; it had a short veil at the back. She carried a round bouquet of white flowers.

She had as her only attendant her cousin, Mrs. Warren M. Garmon, of New Orleans who wore a summer model of white organza with a skirt fashioned as the bride's and a white hat. A broad sash of Kelley green was worn with this, and she carried a small round bouquet of flowers in the pastel shades, pink predominating.

Mr. O'Gwin had as his best man James McConnell, brother of the bride. Colonel Marcel Gillis and Edward Montgomery were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn of the McConnell home at Waveland. Potted palms and stands holding arrangements of flowers were used in the yard decorations. The bride's table which held the four-tiered wedding cake, was covered with a Logan heirloom lace cloth which had covered the table of brides in the family for generations. Lines of the valley and river candelabra holding lighted tapers completed it.

Receiving with the bride party were Mrs. McConnell, mother of the bride, and Mrs. C. D. Hancock, Gulfport, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. McConnell was wearing a navy dress with a white lace pattern and white gloves.

For traveling the bride wore a light blue jacket dress, a white hat, and white accessories. Upon their return, they will be at home in Gulfport where Mr. O'Gwin is associated with the Parsdorf Oil Company.

Nurses, Dentists and Others
Eligible for Commissions

Many former Army nurses, dietitians, physical therapists, and occupational therapists, who served during World War II have become eligible for commissions in the Regular Army under Public Law 514, enacted 16 May 1950, amending the Army-Navy Nurses act of 1947.

The new law opens integration into the Regular Army for a period of one year for those World War II nurses and women medical specialists who had not reached their 35th birthday at the time of initial entry on active duty with the Medical Department, and if separated, separated subsequent to 12 May 1945.

Eligible for consideration are Reserve officers now on EAD, Reserve officers in civilian practice, and former Army nurses, dietitians, physical therapists, and occupational therapists not now actively commissioned. All applicants honorably discharged or relieved from active military duty after May 1945, will be credited with service from the period of termination of duty to the date of appointment in the Regular Army. Standard RA requirements for physical fitness and proficiency will be employed in the evaluation of all candidates.

Appointment grades will be from second lieutenant through captain. Applications must be submitted during the first six months on the one-year integration period, and must be received no later than 5 December, 1950. Department of the Army Circular No. 32, dated 5 June 1950, implementing the legislation is now on its way to the field.

Interested Reserve officers now on EAD should apply through appropriate command channels. Those now engaged in civilian practice may apply through the Commanding General, Fort Benning, Georgia, or Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Fruit, Vegetables
Good Decoration

State College, Miss.—"Adequate and appropriate fruits, vegetables and flowers can be grown in Mississippi on practically a year-round basis to supply food and decorations for the home and for the entire family."

E. H. Buckley, associate Extension Horticulturist made this statement as he displayed about 35 varieties of fruits and vegetables available in Mississippi during the Spring and Summer to the Farm and Home Week visitors attending the "Beauty and Abundance in Mississippi—Morning, Noon and Night" demonstration.

In another phase of this demonstration, one of six farm family living demonstrations held during the Farm and Home Week program, Henry J. Smith, assistant horticulturist, made suitable arrangements of home-grown flowers for table settings.

A buffet setting with black linens and white milk glass china, on all paper picnic setting and a barbecue table complete with red-checked cloth, wooden bowls and flowers in an old-fashioned iron skillet were among those arranged by Miss Mary Agnes Gordon, Extension crafts specialist and Miss Eva Leggett, consumer education specialist.

The table settings were arranged, the specialists emphasized, to show that handicrafts, glass, china and silver available in any home can be used in attractive and unusual ways with thought and imagination.

The Farm and Home Visitors learned facts of farmstead planning and arrangement from J. T. Copeland, Extension Agricultural engineer, and of constructing farm buildings from Kermit Ray, assistant engineer.

PROPER FOOTING
Introducing the new Extension-designed three-in-one farm ranch type house, plans for which are available from county Extension officers, Mr. Ray said the most important advice he could give for building construction was provision for proper footing, and oversight that costs farmers dollars in the long run.

As she outlined family living studies underway at the Mississippi Experiment Station, Dr. Dorothy Dickens, head of the home economics department, pointed out that a recently completed study showed values of food produced for family use during 1947 averaged $800 for white owner families and $238 for Negro cropper families.

Kinds and amounts of house furnishings owned by town and rural families in Clay county are being studied to find new uses for cotton.

Another study is being made, Dr. Dickens said, of levels of living of families in rural counties that are shifting from cotton to other types of farming and into industry.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Forecast White Clover Seed Crop at 5000 lbs.

By Howard F. Simmons

The white-clover seed crop in Louisiana and Miss. is forecast at 5,000 pounds of clean seed. This would be about one-fifth less than produced in this area in 1949 and less than half the 1947 and 1948 crops, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports. Harvest operations in Louisiana have been hampered by wet weather and spring. In effect, this has reduced both the acreage for harvest and the seed yield per acre below earlier expectations. In Miss., however, larger production than last year is indicated. Most of the increase in the result of a larger acreage for harvest, as the producing areas have expanded to other sections of this State. In 1949, Louisiana and Mississippi produced nearly a third of the total United States crop. The first estimate of the white-clover seed production for all producing States will be released August 28.

The Louisiana crop, forecast at 200,000 pounds clean seed is less than half the 420,000 pounds harvested in 1949. If the 1950 crop prospects do not recover as harvest advances, the Louisiana white-clover seed output for this season will be one of the smallest in the past 20 years of record. On June 15 this year, seed was expected to be harvested from 4,000 acres in the State. This compares with 7,000 acres harvested last year and a 5-year (1944-48) average of 10,280 acres. The drastic drop in the Louisiana acreage more than offsets the gain in the Mississippi acreage. The combined acreage for the two State area, at 7,800 acres in 1950, will fall short of the 1949 acreage by 20 percent and is only about one-half the average acreage harvested during the recent five-year (1944-48) period.

AUGUST PASTURES
Take a good look at pastures. Plenty of grazing in August probably means plenty all other months of the year.

A good grazing picture now is Good dallis following white clover, cow on good dallis and lespedeza with a few hours grazing on Sudan, millet or kudzu. Sheep are on Sudan, millet or dallis and lespedeza. Hogs are grazing soybeans and eating corn from stalks. If this is true, keep running the mowing machine and make money from grass.

Get ready for winter grazing. It is time to spread lime, phosphate, potash, or basic slag and potash.

If the land was not fallowed in July, prepare it now for late August and early September oat planting. One acre is the minimum for one cow, or four sheep or each sow and litter.

Do not plan to start fall grazing crops on a poor seed bed. Buy out, ryegrass, clover and legume seed. Just any kind of oats will not do for grazing. It takes good oat seed free of weed seed. Oats can be planted on three different areas for grazing. These are on the sod pastures, with a clover or legume and alone to be followed by lespedeza next March 1.

FALL GARDENING
There are 22 different kinds of vegetables which can be grown in a fall garden. About 10 of these vegetables can be left in the garden over winter with a little protection.

So plant now to have that fall garden. Continue with year-round gardening this year.

Until Aug. 15 is planting time for collards, pole snap beans, rutabaga and Chinese cabbage. It's last call for setting tomato plants or suckers.

Irish potatoes should be planted in North Mississippi, August 1-10; Central Mississippi, August 10-20; and South Mississippi, August 15-25.

Besides planting, other August vegetable garden jobs are mulching, killing bugs, adding to the compost pile, keeping down weeds and grass, and cultivating. Keep the garden clean during the summer and fall and there will be fewer insects and less disease next year.

Strawberries now need careful weeding and cultivation to prevent competition for moisture and plant food.

It is necessary to develop strong strawberry plants now to pro-

Polio Equipment Sent to Vicksburg

Emergency equipment needed for the care of polio patients has just reached the Lutheran hospital in Vicksburg, according to Esther Helm, State Representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The equipment, rushed from the National Foundation's equipment pool in Atlanta, Georgia, at the request of the hospital, consists of 3 hot pack machines and 1 respirator.

Fifty-five polio patients are now under treatment at two hospitals in Vicksburg, Miss. Helm said. Thirty-one are in the Lutheran Hospital, and twenty-four are in the Mercy hospital-Street Memorial. Eight Mississippi polio patients are now under treatment in Memphis hospitals, and one is hospitalized in New Orleans.

Dr. A. L. Gray, Director, Preventable Disease Control, State Board of Health, said Mississippi has had 19 cases of polio this year as compared with 130 for the same period in 1949. "This year," Dr. Gray said, "one or more cases have been reported in 54 counties, a few of which have more than the normal expectancy, but no county has reached epidemic proportions."

Highest hit counties are Hinds, 11 cases, Washington 7, Simpson 5, Coahoma, Harrison, Lauderdale and Pontotoc have each had 4 cases. Three cases have occurred in Amite, Attala, Clay, Franklin, Jones, Madison, Noxubee, Panola Sharkey and Yazoo. No other county has had more than two cases.

At a recent meeting of the State Polio Planning Committee, headed by Dr. Felix J. Underwood, State Health Officer, plans were made to meet any emergency which may arise this summer. "All polio patients are assured of the best available hospital and medical care," stated Dr. Underwood. Twenty-six county chapters of the National Foundation in Mississippi have received a total of $57,000 from headquarters of the March of Dimes Organization, according to Dr. Underwood, who has headed the March of Dimes Fund Raising Campaign in Mississippi for the past twelve years.

If polio strikes your home, contact your County Chapter of the National Foundation, and any financial assistance needed will be immediately available.

Those visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. Seal, Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Bounds and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Daniels of Salem; Mrs. August Lee of Benvenue, and Mrs. Blondie Oufnac of Baton Rouge.

SUMMER CALLS ON LIGHTER DIET

The hot summer months frequently bring about food problems. For instance, you have probably found that your body calls for a lighter diet in summer than in winter. Actually, that diet may be had quite simply, just by reducing your calorie intake—your consumption of heat-producing foods such as gravies, rich sauces, and pastries. It should be noted, however, that regardless of the weather, you need to eat these regular meals each day. Your need of meat, vegetables, milk, eggs, and fruit is just as great in summer as in any other season. In fact, you should eat more fruits than ever.

Chilled fruits, along with fruit juices and other beverages, will not only make you cooler but will also combat the dehydration caused by perspiration. Remember, though, that you should not drink ice-cold beverages or eat when you are extremely overheated.

FORESTS furnish Your Home

Fine home furnishings begin in the tall timber. Period chairs, knee-hole desks, modern tables, comfortable sofas—all start as growing trees.

The forests of America are ready today—as they were for the first colonists—to provide the material for the nation's home furnishings. America's forest industries are drawing on these forests, as they have for more than 300 years, for the essential materials we need.

Because trees grow and forests replace themselves, we can always have wood for our necessities. But our forests need our help. Do your share to keep fires out of our woodlands. Remember! A fire prevented today means more trees for tomorrow!

BAIC Claims Credit For The Increased Penicillin Production

State College, Miss., July 27.—Credit for the rapid increase in the commercial production of penicillin was claimed here today for the Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry of the USDA.

Frank L. Teuton, head of the bureau's information division, addressing the Thursday afternoon meeting of Farm and Home Week, described the new uses for farm products developed by the bureau and the four regional research laboratories operated by the bureau.

"The organism that is used in the production of penicillin is an improved strain of a mold that one of our laboratory scientists found growing in one of our laboratories. It quickly increased the yield of penicillin so that it could be produced on a commercial scale."

Now, about 8 million pounds of milk sugar and 17 million pounds of corn steeping liquor are used annually in the production of penicillin. He said that the wholesale value of the penicillin produced in 1949 was worth one hundred million dollars, in addition to the untold value of lives saved.

"The cost of penicillin has dropped from a high of about $35 per 100,000 units to a wholesale price of about 5 cents, and a consumer price of about 25 cents per 100,000 units," he said. "Production has increased to about 11 trillion units per month."

He said that penicillin production through the world today is based on cultural methods worked out by scientists in the Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry, and that the value of this one accomplishment is sufficient to pay for the operation of all the bureau's laboratories for a quarter of a century.

Mr. Teuton told of other promising antibiotics, in addition to penicillin, being developed by the bureau's scientists, insulin and subtilin, thought to be helpful in combating tuberculosis; an unnamed antibiotic, to safeguard the preservation of canned foods; tomatato, to prevent tomato wilt; and many others.

"Our bureau has the largest collection of industrially important molds and other organisms in the world, a total of more than 5,000 specimens," he said. "Our scientists have proven so successful with their work on antibiotics that they are now trying to see what they can produce from some of their other molds and bacteria."

Mr. Teuton spoke of rutin, a new drug which is extracted from the leaves and blossoms of the green buckwheat plant. Rutin is beneficial in treating persons suffering from capillary fragility, sometimes associated with high blood pressure. The new drug was made available for medical use by one of the bureau laboratories.

The press cake made from peanuts is being improved in the New Orleans laboratory, and thus the marketability of the peanut protein is being enhanced, according to Mr. Teuton, who illustrated all the items he discussed with exhibits showing 50 new users of farm products. Local girls modeled garments made from the new fibers he described.

A new water-resistant cotton fabric has been developed by the New Orleans laboratory, and another new cotton fabric with a linen-like finish is said to provide excellent material for children's play suits, swimming suits, and hot weather garments.

Another new product, known as CMC, is also of interest to housewives; an inexpensive compound to be used in the rinse water. CMC is said to make dirty clothes, especially cotton goods, harder to soil and easier to clean.

Trees "About To Take" Pasture

Archie M. Batson and J. D. Batson, sons of Hollis Batson, near Wiggins, Miss., inspect abundant pine growth in their father's improved pasture. Many of the pines exceed four feet in height, despite the fact that no fires and absence of hogs.

Hollis Batson, farmer located near Wiggins, Mississippi has been having a hard time keeping the trees from growing on his farm. Yes, that's right, the seedling trees are actually about to "take" his pasture, according to J. G. Guthrie, forestry agent for the Illinois Central Railroad.

It seems he cleared this old field up to plow in 1943, when there were a few scattered young trees in it, to build a pasture, and he has plowed it every three years since. Before he put the field into pasture he tried to let the surrounding trees re-seed the area, but had no success since wild-fire and hogs were prevalent in the area.

It has been three years since the land has been plowed and the loblolly pines are about to re-take the pasture again. "If fire and hogs are kept out," says Mr. Batson, "the trees will come back in two years. The reason we don't get trees in the woods is that they hardly get two years without fire."

"This improved pasture area is a fair illustration of what happens when fire and hogs are kept out of the area you want to re-forest," says Mississippi Area Ranger, Vaden Loveless.

County Agent Otto Rowell and Soil Conservationist Carl Owens, have recommended clipping the pasture areas periodically. This will not only improve the grazing qualities of the pasture, but will eliminate the pines from "taking over" at the same time.

grees F to 32 degrees F. Results showed considerable variation in resistance of varieties to cold injury, and studies along this line are continuing.

Although root rot on plants prevented normal response of plants in grafting studies, it appears that a relative humidity of at least 90 percent to 95 percent in the grafting structure is necessary for graft union. Grafting in opaque structure is necessary for graft union. Grafting in opaque structures with controlled light, temperature and humidity showed definite possibilities.

Periodic bud samples have been taken from 24 plants of each of the two varieties Tricolor and Victor Emanuel which are subjected to various combinations of length of day and light intensity treatments. These bud samples will be sectioned and studied to determine the effects of these two factors on the formation and development of flower buds in the common Camellia.

Mr. Link Robinson, 519 Lindsey is the most content and satisfied man in Newport, Ky. In fact, he says there isn't a thing in the world that can irritate or upset him now that he is on the HADACOL.

Here is what Mr. Robinson has to say about HADACOL, which is now supplying liberal quantities of these essential elements: "I have been a steel worker for over twenty years. When you are a steel worker, you have to do plenty of good, hard work, and you need lots of good, substantial food. But when a stomach is in as bad a shape as mine was... I couldn't eat, I had gas pains, stomach bloating and nervousness; well, I just couldn't eat the proper foods I needed. My boss told me about HADACOL and I started taking it immediately. After the second bottle I could tell a definite improvement. Now I can eat the food I need to eat to really be on the job. In fact, I can eat anything I want to. I am not nervous anymore, either. Best of all, I haven't got those terrific gas pains and no more stomach bloating. HADACOL is the best ever. I recommend HADACOL to everyone."

HADACOL is Different. Countless thousands are benefiting from HADACOL... even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients whose systems lack Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron, and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every cell of your body—the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails. Give remarkable HADACOL a chance and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles, we take your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size, Large Family or Hospital Size, $4.50.

Your State Health Officer Says

The Topical Fluoride Demonstration Program, which was initiated on July 1, 1948, by congressional act, has served well in calling to the attention of the people of this country the benefits which may accrue from this prophylactic service. The demonstrations conducted by the United States Public Health Service in cooperation with State Health Departments and the dentists, lend encouragement to us all in relation to the prevention of dental caries. Our demonstrations in Mississippi in Tupelo, Columbus, Greenwood, Greenville, Meridian, Canton, Vicksburg, Laurel, Jackson, Biloxi, Brookhaven and McComb have been conducted with full cooperation of all concerned. The dentists and the schools deserve great credit for the successful prosecution of these prophylactic demonstrations. There will naturally follow a continuing and expanding dental health program. It is reasonable to conclude that Congress, with full cooperation of State Legislatures, and if necessary, local units of government, will make grants-in-aid provision to State Departments of Health to implement an over-all prophylactic dental program. On June 8, 1950, a resolution was adopted by the State and Territorial Dental Health Directors in their annual meeting in Washington, D. C. I quote verbatim the resolution passed by these Directors of Dental Health: "RESOLVED that the State and Territorial Directors recommend the fluoridation of public water supplies for the partial control of dental caries, where the local dental and medical professions have approved this program, and where the community can meet and maintain the standards required by the State health authority."

Latin-American Student Attends Millsaps

Dr. Colley F. Sparkman (left) and Dean William E. Riecken (right) welcome Juan Parodi of Managua, Nicaragua, to the second summer session of Millsaps College. Dr. Sparkman is in charge of the special course for Latin American students recently recommended by the International House of New Orleans through newspapers throughout Latin America. Juan will become a civil engineer.

Juan Parodi, of Managua, Nicaragua, is attending Millsaps College during its second summer session as a result of a recent recommendation of the school by the International House of New Orleans. Millsaps was recommended as particularly desirable for attendance by students through South American newspapers. Juan read the article in his Managua newspaper "Novelidades," and the next day was aboard a Pan American Airways plane, bound for Jackson.

Juan is nineteen, and has visited the States frequently before coming to Millsaps. His two brothers and two sisters are in schools here. Senior Parodi, Juan's father, is Commissioner of Police for the Department of Yelapa in Nicaragua. A "department" is equivalent to a State here, and there are fourteen of them in Nicaragua. The course which Juan is taking at Millsaps is a new one designed particularly for the purpose by Dr. Colley F. Sparkman. It provides training in conversational English, grammar and composition, pronunciation and phonetics, and includes a broad survey of the life and culture of North America.

It is contemplated that the courses will become an annual feature of the Millsaps summer sessions, and word of this plan has already been made known throughout South America. Dean William E. Riecken emphasizes the dual value of the program—to our southern neighbors, and to our students, and expresses the pleasure Millsaps feel in acting as host this summer to its Latin American students.

United Gas Proposes Construction of 1,130 Miles of Pipe Lines

Shreveport, La., July 24 (Special)—United Gas Pipe Line Company filed an application with the Federal Power Commission Monday proposing the construction of 1,130 miles of natural gas pipe lines in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi. Cost of the proposed pipe lines and other facilities was estimated to be in excess of $111,000,000.

The project will receive its supplies of gas from substantial reserves in a number of fields along the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coasts. Construction of these facilities will provide an initial in the capacity of United's pipe line, million cubic feet daily.

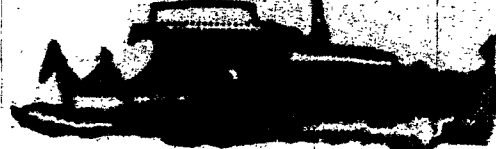

These enlarged facilities would serve the triple purpose, according to the application to the FPC, of increasing the flexibility of the United Gas system, providing it with new and substantial additional reserves presently connected. United Gas serves more than 400 cities and towns in Texas, Louisiana, Miss., southern Alabama and northwestern Florida.

The proposed lines would constitute a major addition to the existing United Gas system, augmenting the delivery capacity of the system to meet the increased demands of present customers as well as to serve new customers in the area, according to the application. Deliveries would be made to cities, towns and industrial plants along the lines, as well as to Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation and other pipe line companies.

Plywood Mills Unwind Logs; Make All-Purpose Material

Plywood, one of man's most versatile building materials, comes from logs like these. Plywood is light, durable, and strong.

If you knew a workman who could build a boat or a house, pack heavy loads over a long period of time, properly tune a piano and still fit into the most sedate, sophisticated and artistic surroundings, would you hire him? You bet you would!

That's exactly what America has done for one workman with all these abilities and more: Plywood.

World War II and the post-war building boom have given plywood its greatest test and its greatest opportunity. Builders call it the building material of today as well as tomorrow.

Plywood has three great virtues, durability, light weight and strength. In fact, the strength of some plywood products has been found to be greater than steel of proportionate weight.

Plywood is peeled from round "peeler" logs in paper-thin sheets—just like wrapping paper is pulled from a roller. The thin sheets of wood are called veneer and they're essentially the same thing that furniture craftsmen like Sheraton and Chippendale have used in thin flakes to inlay exotic woods.

In fact, the oldest known use of wood as a decoration for furniture, is in an Egyptian coffin that dates back to around 2,000 B.C.

It wasn't until the invention of the rotary cutting tool in 1890 that plywood came into its own as a formidable construction material. The rotary cutting tool made it possible to peel logs for veneer. In 1896 plywood was first used for tea chests.

The thin veneer is cut, after peeling, in sheets that are glued together layer after layer with the grain alternating at right angles. Press-dried, the plywood is then ready for use.

About 50 factories turn out between one and a half and two billion square feet of plywood every year in the United States, 20 percent of it with a high finish on both sides for use as a decorative material.

It can also be used for flooring, sub-flooring, roofing, walls, cabinets, doors, shelving, and every imaginable kind of furniture. Plywood is the ideal material for construction forms.

Douglas fir is the raw material for nearly two-thirds of all plywood made in this country and 90 percent of light construction plywood.

Recognized as one of the best building materials available, plywood will do an even larger job for America in the years to come.

ed for distribution. Johnson grass is also being crossed with Hodosorophum to produce a juicy plant for silage.

Crimson clover breeders are developing a hard-seeded variety. One hundred and three varieties of alfalfa are under study for selection as to forage type, yield of forage and yield of seed.

A breeding program with medium red clover was initiated in January, 1950, cooperatively between the Delta Branch Experiment Station and the Central Station to develop a disease resistant clover which will persist much longer in dry summer months than present clovers. From 25,000 seedlings, 600 promising plants have been transplanted into a spaced nursery in the field for further selection for resistance to powdery mildew, which is the disease that attacks red clover.

State College Miss.—Better adapted pasture plants are being sought in plant breeding and selection programs under way at the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station, according to the annual report of the Agronomy Department.

Johnson grass selections are being made on the basis of leafiness, resistance to disease, yield of forage and ability to survive frequent mowing. Thirty percent of the original selections were eliminated by mowing. Approximately 50 percent of the selections have produced 5 pounds of forage per plant at each clipping. One of the best lines is being increased.

Mud Lake Gets "Cleared Up"

County officers got a notice from the government not long ago, asking them to change the name of Mud Lake. Seems it's a pond, not a lake, by government standards. Because it lies entirely inside our town limits, we asked to do the name-changing ourselves. Figured we'd think up a brand-new name. Mud Lake's really not very muddy—sort of pretty, in fact. County people said go ahead, so we had a "Town Meeting." Everyone suggested something. Windy Taylor thought "Taylor Pond" would be nice, because his place borders it—for about 30 feet! But we finally decided to call it "Turtle Pond" in honor of the real owners. From where I sit, naming that pond wasn't the most important thing in the world—but the way we did it was. Everyone offered his opinion and then the majority vote decided it. That's the way it should be—wholesome. It concerns naming a pond, or having the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer or ale—if and when we choose.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

Plans Entertainment for Children

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

It's vacation time. Are you one of the many vacationers who're going on a trip by automobile? You'll have a pleasanter and safer time, if you do some advance planning to keep the children entertained.

Plan to make frequent stops especially to places of interest to children, such as parks, lighthouses or airports. Otherwise, they become restless from riding. To keep young children amused during long hours of driving, take along smooth, soft toys, that won't hurt if the car goes over a bump. Small toys like dolls, plastic cars and airplanes or balloons are suggestions.

Simple games may keep the children diverted on the road. Youngsters may enjoy counting railroad cars or cattle in the fields while Dad or Mother keeps score to see who gets the highest count in the shortest time.

REFRIGERATOR CARE

As you clean and defrost your refrigerator, don't overlook the condenser. It releases into the outside air the heat taken from the inside of the refrigerator. It is located in the motor compartment or at the back of the refrigerator.

The condenser needs to be kept free from dust and lint. In some refrigerators, it may need cleaning every month. Others need cleaning not often than every six months. A stiff brush or the dusting tool of the vacuum is best for this job.

Always disconnect an electric refrigerator before cleaning the condenser.

A dirty, clogged up condenser may cause excessive running of the motor, poor refrigeration in the food compartment and higher electric bill.

POTS AND PANS

Pans and kettles with straight, up-and-down sides are most convenient for use on modern ranges. This is something for homemakers who're adding new cooking utensils to their supplies and for young homemakers who're just buying their pots and pans to consider.

When several pans are in use at the same time, straight sides, let them stand together more closely. Those with flaring sides may jostle each other out of position.

Flaring sides may indirectly cause waste of heat and uneven cooking, because they don't stand squarely on the burner or electric unit where they get even heat.

The flare-top style seems to be a leftover from the days of the old-time cookstove where space-saving and exact position were less important.
